Home Training System	Rank: 2	Price: $699	Available: Sporting goods stores.
-----------------------------	----------------	---------------------	--

Cawells Industries advertises the Home Training System as “the ultimate home workout for the serious trainer.” These are not just hollow promises. The first clue that this will be a “serious” machine is the price tag, a full $500 more than the FitQuest 2000. The Home Training System does offer almost everything you can think of in a home gym, and its 58 exercises are almost double that offered by the FitQuest or Bodyworks II machines. The Home Training System provides a genuine workout that nearly rivals what could be achieved at commercial fitness gyms. However, this is a gym for someone with plenty of time for training. Changing exercise positions on this machine is cumbersome and sometimes more of a workout than the exercises themselves. It required almost two hours to assemble. It is bulky and would only be considered portable by Arnold Schwarzenegger—maybe. Bottom line: This is a good machine, but if you’ve got this much time and money, join a gym.

Bodyworks II	Rank: 3	Price: $129	Available: Most department stores.

The Bodyworks II claims to offer a “superb workout in just a half-hour.” Well, not exactly. The machine, the least expensive of the three, did provide a good workout. Its 35 positions were slightly more than the FitQuest though less than the Home Training System. It also came unassembled, but was not as difficult to put together as the Home Training System. Though some of the exercises were a bit awkward, none seemed dangerous. Changing positions, however, was somewhat difficult and seemed to make a 30-minute workout unlikely unless limited to three or four exercises. Though the machine is not bulky and can easily fit under a bed, it is heavy, and unfolding it was a challenge. Its caster wheels are not adequate for pushing it more than a few feet. Bottom line: You can get a good workout from this machine, but if you can afford it, spend a little more for the FitQuest 2000.
